About the Business:

Unique Food Manufacturing Business

This business is a fully-fledged food manufacturer and distribution company. Supplying some of the largest food convenience stores and they just concluded a supply agreement with major role players in the health sector.

The branded products are wrapped in their own innovative packaging and have been described as-gourmet, elegant, fresh, shelf stable, refined, gastronomic etc.

These products exceed competitors in the fresh convenience food market by far due to a combination of using only the best sourced ingredients, professional display on the shelves, unique handcrafted products catering for the customer requiring a fresh meal/snack on the run, etc.

The new supply chain into the health sector only started now recently and there is a huge opportunity to expand this further especially with people after the covid-era now being more conscious of their food choices.

This business includes the building, which was recently valued at R3,2 million.

The assets in this business are well managed and equipped to produce food products according to the strict regulations of the different food convenience groups that buy from this business.

The staff component is very stable and most of them have been with the business from the start.
