What are the main assets of the business?

Schools are made up of three asset categories, namely:

The intangible personal property/business value (contracts, systems, staff & goodwill); the tangible personal property (furniture, fixtures & equipment), and the real estate value. It is considered that the value would be a direct result of the status of the school's intangible and tangible personal property. Should the school thus be highly regarded in the community due to the reputation of the care given to pre-primary children, quality of material and programs used to educate the scholars, and qualifications and ability of teachers/staff employed, the more revenue will be created through parents trusting and utilising the facility to take care and educate their children.

A school is thus heavily reliant on its management, staff, equipment and programs in order to generate an income. Such an establishment normally generates detailed operating statements, which is regularly audited. It is thus the opinion that the profits or turnover method would be the most suitable method to use in order to determine the income stream of the property. The information required to determine such income stream is also audited and provides the valuer with reliable information, which eliminates assumptions and subjective comparisons

Plus Goodwill, 3 x Prefab Classroom, 1 x Padel Court, Office furniture and computers.
